Documents providing the titularity of academic grades and diplomas, or recognitions obtained in foreign institutions of higher education, may be dispensed during the application period, being substituted by declarations on honor from applicant. The validation of original documents will be made during the hiring phase. The mentioned declarations will refer to facts occurring prior to the application period. In the course of the application period, once the applicant decides to present a declaration on honor as the substitution of degree recognition by a Portuguese higher education institution, for the cases that the recognition of degree has yet in course, the classification attributed to the academic degree won't be admitted as evidence for the purpose of evaluation of the academic background. In these situations, the jury will assign the minimum classification in such method, according to the defined scale of values. Any data referred in the declaration on honor that is not coincident with the original documentation will not be considered. Only facts contained in the documentation presented by the applicant will be considered for evaluation. In cases where the provided documentation testifying the academic grades obtained by the applicant and diplomas, or corresponding terms established by the law no. 66/2018, from the 16th August, do not correspond to the results of the academic record, which will be considered for evaluation in the academic background (referred above in (a)), the human resource service of UMinho will take the decision to suspend the hiring process.
